On May 31st, 2012, The PTA of Radburn School will lead its annual Cultural Day program for our K-5 students, together with The REFLEX Ensemble. The theme of this year’s Cultural day is:

“Open Mind, Open Heart”

When we are talking about cultural diversity, we must remember that diversity expands beyond race and ethnicity; it includes gender issues, age, religion, nationality and diverse abilities.

This year, special emphasis is being placed on fun, child-focused activities: we will lead our students in interactive activities and together we will create a school-wide musical composition. We will use open dialogs, music and art making to facilitate active listening, a better understanding and eventually-acceptance of people of all kinds.

Each grade level will be provided with a different age-appropriate activity, which will enable the students to explore the strengths, resilience and abilities that people with disabilities demonstrate on a daily basis. Through fun music and art activities the positive development of our children will be promoted, while we create awareness of the many entities working to enrich the total well-being of young children.

Come and listen with us in different ways- through listening we will create understanding and acceptance!
